a rising sun, a very charitable hero who is very beautiful and learned a lot. He is the one who gives happiness to Rama's mind, He is the one who is the desire to give the tree to the faithful, He is the one who protects, blesses, drives away fear, He is the one who is the favorite, the son of the wind of God. He is who is Hanuman, He is the one who is the Son of Anjana, He is the one who is the son of the god of the wind, He is the one who is very strong, He is the one who is dear to Rama, He is the one who is A friend of Arjuna, He is the one who has given his life to Lakshman. If these twelve names of the king of monkeys are read, in our time after standing up or during the journey, all our fears will be destroyed and we will win all wars, and we will never be afraid at the king's gate or in a forest cave. I salute with his hands the hands of that son of Anjana, who crossed the great waters of the sea, who poured the fire of Sita's sorrow, and who then set Lanka on fire. Om, greetings let all bad consequences because of all the planets, devils, past, present and future and evil spirits that are nearby, be banished, banished. Let the forces of others diminish, and let all my deeds succeed. These are magical chants and cannot be translated. Let the evil charms and chants created by others, the jealousy of others, the effect of ghosts, corpses and devils, and let all the blockages created by evil people, let the evil knowledge and let all great fears be cured, cured. I meditate on God, who is a humble, lord of the monkey clan who makes good creatures of the earth, Who has the brilliance of one crore of the rising sun, who is a rather valiant hero who wears a sacred thread and deer skin and a bundle that shines in the ear of studs, who loves his devotees, who is greeted by wise men and loves the sound of singing. I sing about that, which has a diamond-like body, who has red hair, wears golden ear studs, Who is not easy to see and very valiant, Who like crystal and shines like gold, has two hands that are welcome, has two ear studs, and an extremely shiny lotus-like face. I think of Hanuman, who holds a mace in his right hand, who holds a pot of water in his left hand, and who rises to a position standing in the south. Whoever reads this armor of Hanuman with a clear understanding, this man with great devotion will achieve happiness and salvation. If one or three reads it in three months, He will win in the second, against all his enemies, and this gentleman will make all his wealth. If read in the middle of the night standing in the water for seven weeks, he would get rid of three sufferings due to tuberculosis. Epilepsy and leprosy. The great who reads it under the Banyan on Sundays will receive a mountain like wealth, and will win the war. Wisdom, strength, glory, courage, fearlessness, freedom from disease, great presence and skill over words would be his own if he meditated on Hanuman. He who worships the great in war, will defeat the spells and enemies, all wealth will bow before him, and all grief will disappear from him. Whoever writes or worships him will win wherever, and whoever wears it in his hand, will become very rich. If someone is imprisoned and gets this read twice born, he would immediately get freedom and continue to be so. Anyone who always reads this in the morning after waking up, will get a long life, health and children and will praise the famous. This should be read and Rama's armor should be read earlier, people with devotion and not read it alone. Instead, if Hanuman's armor is read without reading Rama's armor, reading such people would be a waste. Thus, all those who want to read, must read both armor together, For , reading with devotion to the armor of Rama and Hanuman especially well.
